Picture adaption

You can see the gallery options as well.

Use the gallery options to define the size of your pictures.

Take care of the thumbnail resize type and the big picture resize type.

Use “Crop” for a regular design. It shows image cutouts.

“Automatic” shows the full size but it makes your layout irregular.

“Exact” shows the full size and makes a regular layout. It may distort your images.

banner3.jpg has been uploaded.
banner4.jpg has been uploaded.

uploaded pictures appear at the end of the list and are disabled by default. You can enable them manually or edit each of them to set a description or a link.

Front Office

Click on Preview to view your gallery. You can find this button in the galleries list, on inside a gallery

The screenshot shows the gallery management interface. At the top, there is a green notification bar with the text: "banner2.jpg has been uploaded. banner3.jpg has been uploaded. banner4.jpg has been uploaded." Below this, there is a "PREVIEW" button. The main interface displays a list of galleries under the heading "IMAGES IN GALLERY: OUR TEAM 6". The list has columns for ID, Photo, Label, Link, Position, and Displayed. The first gallery entry is "Our Team" with ID 2 and URL "http://www.silbersaiten.de/_demo/modules/gallerique/en/gallery/2/our-team.html". A dropdown menu is open over the "Our Team" entry, showing options: "Delete", "View", and "Preview". The "Preview" option is circled in red.

You will be redirected to the front end in the new window, where you can see your gallery. You can add as many images as needed.

NEW: Refer by Shortcut

since V 1.1.3, you can use Shortcuts to insert every Gallery in every place you like! It only need to be a textual content made with TinyMCE Editor. You need to use the Syntax

[displayGallery id=ID]

where ID is your gallery ID

You can insert galleries into:

- Product descriptions
- CMS Pages
- Category descriptions
- Manufacturer descriptions
- Many of other Multiblock Extensions

Note: the shortcut must be pasted clearly, without any bold or italic code within. It also must be put in a  Tag. You can ensure you have put it the right way when it looks like this:

Reminder:

if you use a product export tool or synchronize your stock with an ERP system, you may find just the line [displayGallery id=ID] within your product description.

It also may cause the same effect, if the text (product short description) is flattened by the smarty frontend output, for instance in the left column block "new products". where the short description does not consider the rich text. In all cases, where the description is not parsed, the gallery will not be shown.

So use it on your own risk.
